

I am in favor of the the power company using broad band to transmit data over power lines. I an just outside the 3 mile limit for Verizon and they will probably never extend the services and this is the only way I will ever get beyond 33 kb. There are thousands of people here in this same situation. Thankyou